SPRINKLING a tiny BIT of HAPPINESS all over THIS FUNNY OLD PLANET.

'The Happy News For Schools' launched in September 2020 and is something I've been hoping to achieve since the very first issue of The Happy Newspaper back in 2015.

I believe that children deserve to be hearing about the good stuff going on in the world and not constantly surrounded by terror and fear. I want to encourage and inspire children to find their own happy news and look for the kindness in their schools and communities.

KEEP SMILING, emily x

THE HAPPY NEWS

Originally funded by a successful Kickstarter campaign, The Happy Newspaper celebrates all that's good in the world. This inspiring quarterly publication is jam packed with optimistic and uplifting stories from across the globe and hopes to be a refreshing addition to the mainstream media.

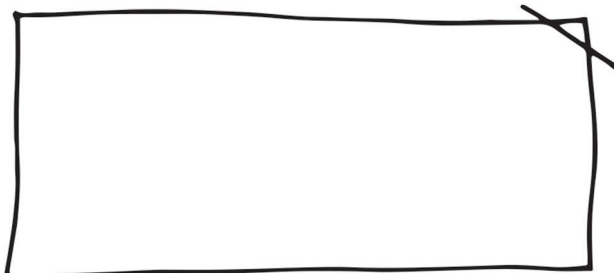

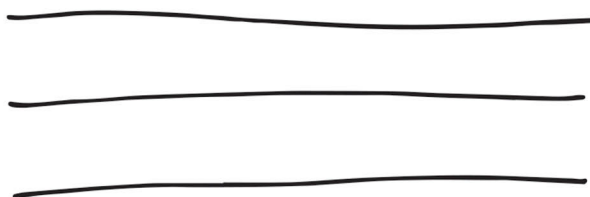

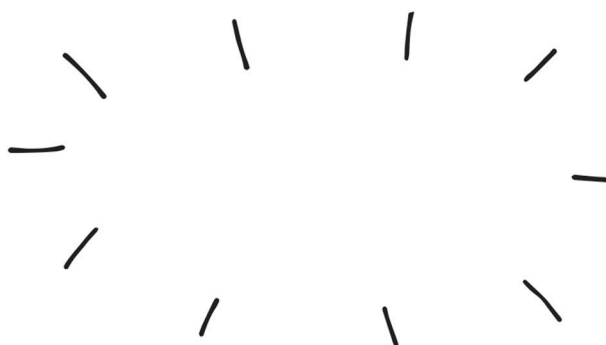

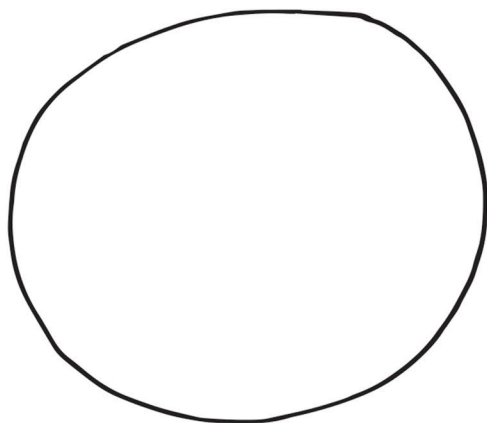

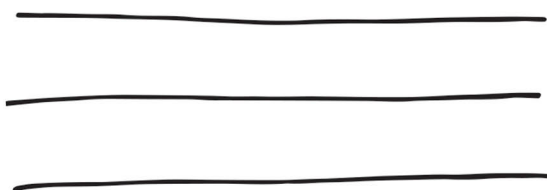

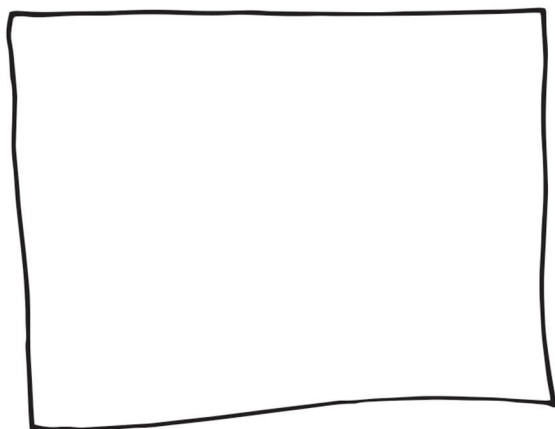

- 32 colourful, illustrated pages
- No boring adverts
- Good quality paper (not newsprint!) so it can be shared and passed around as many times as possible
- Suitable for all ages including children
- For every two newspapers we send to subscribers we'll send one copy to a school
- Discounted price for schools/NHS - £1 per copy

SECOND LIFE TOYS

'Second Life Toys' are spreading the importance of Organ Donations and Transplants by giving toys a new lease of Life.

A Japanese company called 'Second Life Toys' has come up with a wonderful way of raising awareness by fixing broken toys and using a necessary part or "donation" from another toy, creating cute new toys!

The results have been mightily impressive, giving the toys character, colour and new textures but most importantly, ensuring that the donation becomes their focal point and most positive feature.

You can visit their website to find out more:

What would your 'second life toy' look like, if you combined a few of your favourite teddies or toys?

Love through the letterbox Activity Sheet

Send a letter, poem or drawing to an older relative or neighbour to show you're thinking of them.

GET INVOLVED

It's easy and lot's of fun to get involved:

- 1 Think about who you want to send your letter to... Is there someone you are missing, or someone you want to reach out to?
- 2 Get creative with a letter, poem, drawing... Anything goes as long as you can put it in an envelope.
- 3 Write the address on the envelope, you may need to ask someone for this...
- 4 Find your nearest postbox and pop it in. Don't forget to put on a stamp first!
- 5 Your letter will soon be received and someone's day will be brightened as a result! Who knows you may even get one back in return!

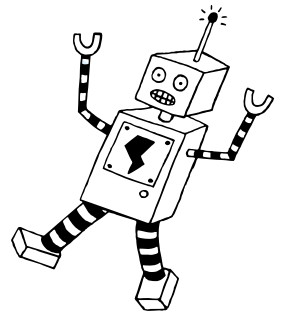

DID YOU KNOW...

- The record for longest letter is 3,200 ft long, it took one month to write!
- The first ever stamp was the Penny Black, which went on sale in 1840 - and cost a penny to buy!
- In the UK we send around 15 billion letters each year.

VILLAGERS KNIT JUMPERS TO KEEP ELEPHANTS WARM DURING NEAR FREEZING TEMPERATURES

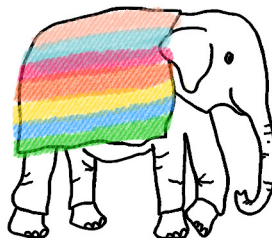

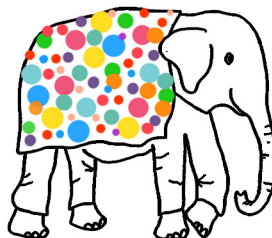

Local villagers in India knitted colourful jumpers for elephants at a Care Centre in the northern city of Mathura after staff were warned temperatures were approaching sub-zero at night.

Below there's space for you to design a jumper for an elephant.

You could use...

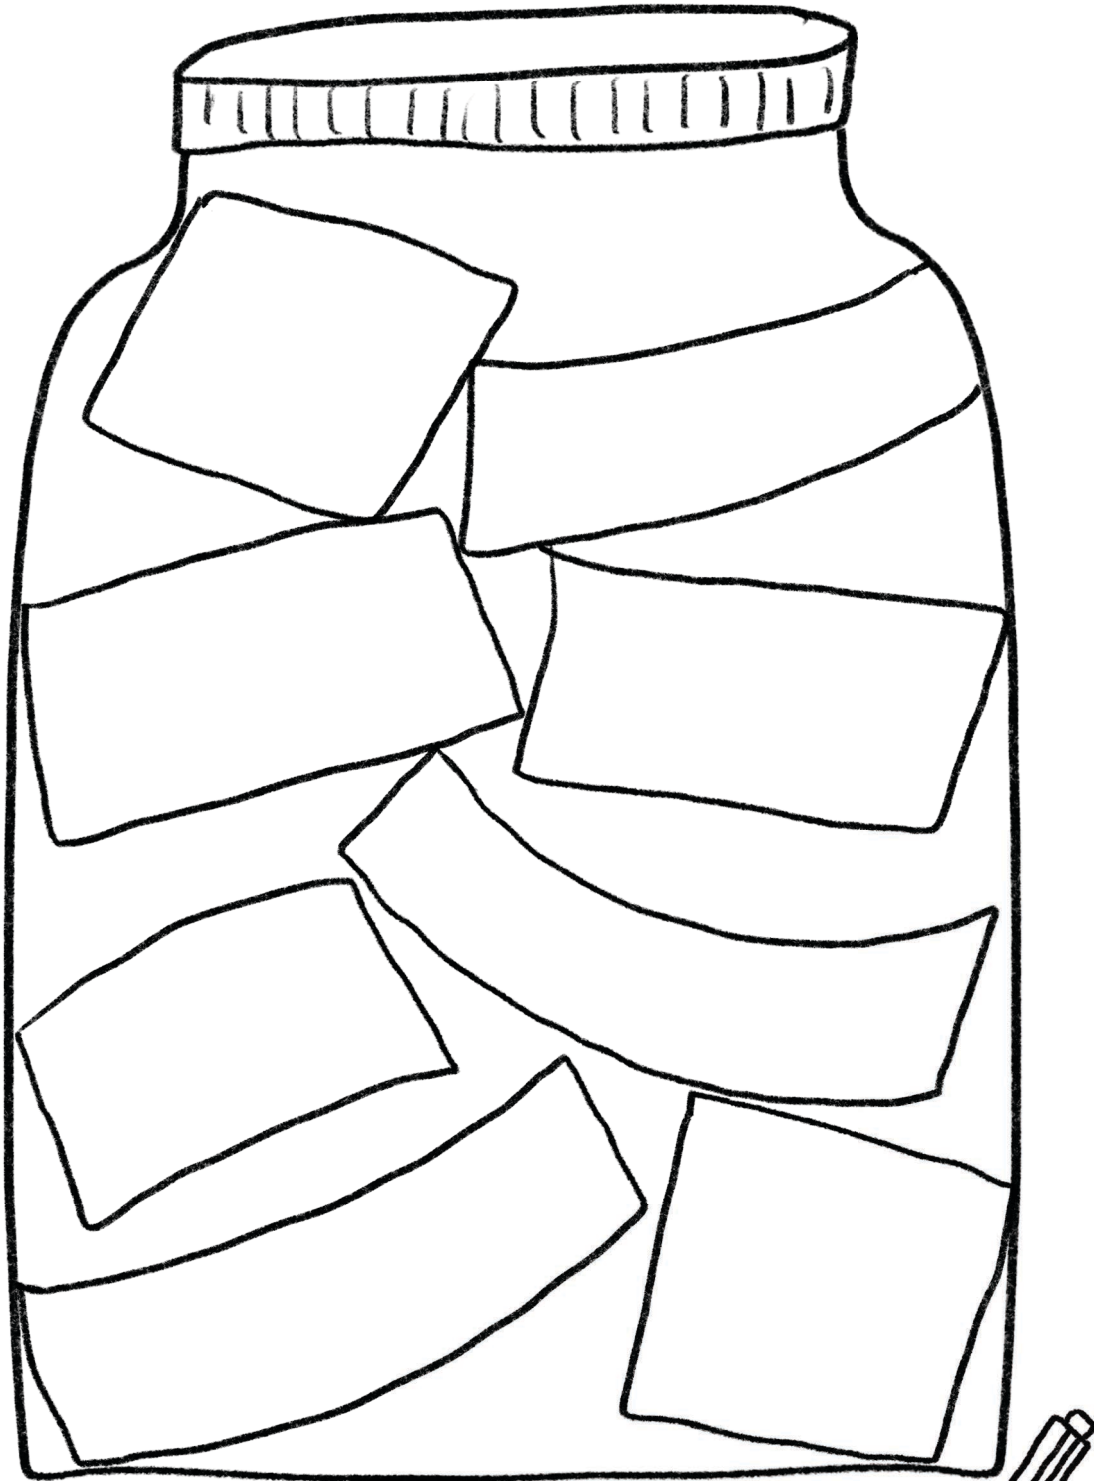

- Pom poms
- Stickers
- Felt-tips
- Paint
- Tissue paper
- Cut out coloured paper
- Newspaper

MAKE A GRATITUDE JAR

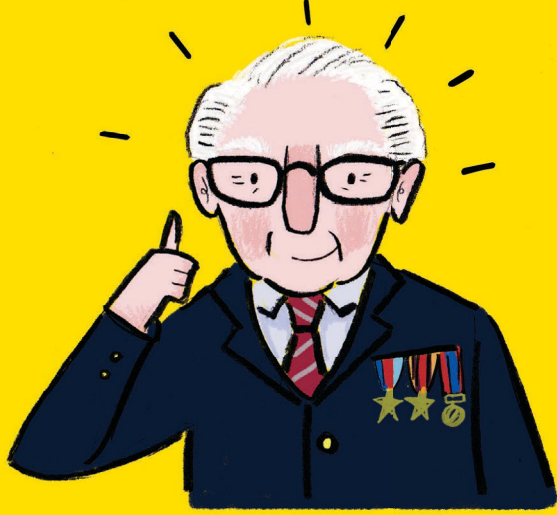

Sometimes when we're sad or angry or confused it can be difficult to see the positives. Each day, try writing down something you're grateful for or that makes you happy...

(for example: crafting, playing with friends, playing football, bouncing on a trampoline, going for a bike ride)

You could get a real jar and fill it up with notes or you could fill out the notes above and colour them in

LEGO TO PHASE OUT PLASTIC THANKS TO KIDS' LETTERS

Lego is to trial the use of paper bags (recyclable and sustainably-sourced), to contain its pieces, from early 2021. Children have driven the move by asking the company to reduce single-use plastic in its packaging. Eight-year-old Hannah from the UK remarked in her letter: "I thought it was a bit silly that the Lego Friends ocean rescue set came in the plastic bags that are harming our beautiful sea creatures".

MADAGASCAR CHAMELEON FOUND AFTER 200 YEARS

Chameleons are renowned for their ability to camouflage within their setting, but their elusive nature has meant that researchers believed the Voeltzkow's chameleon had been lost to science since 1913. That is, until an expedition to the northwest of the African island led scientists to rediscover the incognito species, closely related to the Lambord's chameleon.
